Establishing An Investment Company.

Setting up a company to buy investments in the company name is another way to ensure the tax you pay remains low – less than 30%.

As well as the 30 per cent tax rate, establishing an investment company has other benefits, including the power to choose when dividends are made – minimising personal tax obligations.

Mortgage Offset Account

Whether you're an owner-occupier, or an investor, making your mortgage work for you is a positive way to minimise your tax.

How?

Putting extra available cash into an offset account can reduce the amount of interest payable on your loan AND stop you paying tax on the interest you would earn by leaving your money parked in a savings account.

After-Tax Super Contributions

Did you know that potential tax savings from non-concessional or after-tax contributions can mean big rewards?

With strategic investments you can make those savings work for you – and build your wealth.

Discretionary Family Trust

Setting up the right structure saves you money.

A discretionary trust allows taxable income to be split across multiple beneficiaries – with the ability to distribute more income to beneficiaries in lower tax brackets.

There are ongoing costs but these can be off-set by the potential tax savings.

Transition To Retirement

Over 55?

Combining salary sacrificed pre-tax income into super, then drawing an income from super benefits, can mean huge tax savings.

And did you know that salary sacrifice super contributions are subject to 15% tax? That means more money into your superannuation than if you contribute after-tax income.
